

The Whole {Internet} Truth

The Challenge of Evaluating Internet Resources

Our information-rich world requires a higher level of Internet know-how. Unlike much of what we hear on news broadcasts and what we read in newspapers, most of the content that is published on the Internet is not regulated for credibility and reliability. Since almost anyone can publish anything they want on the Internet, it is important to learn how to assess resources effectively. This informative new video will provide tips on how to evaluate online resources for accuracy and quality.

FACILITATED BY TIFFANY COSTA, RACHEL LABUZ, AND ANGEL VILLARREAL – D64 INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNOLOGY COACHES

DISTRICT 64
PARENT

Available to Watch at www.d64.org/tech

on March 20th

2017-18 Parent University Series

